ion as to the Adoption of the Metric System—Chloroform and its Connection with the Smith-Bennett Murder Case—Is Con-sumption Incurable !—Surgeons in the Army The great convention of representative medical men of the United States reassembled in Association Hall yesterday morning, with President Sayre in the chair. The Committee on Nominations reported in favor of the election of Dr. John T. Hodges of St. Louis as and had attended him professionally, for some President of the American Medical Association for the ensuing year, and for Vice-Presidents ria fever. The visits lasted from ten minutes to haif an hour. Mr. Daiy's mind seemed to haif an hour. Mr. Daiy's mind seemed

Drs. J. K. Bartlett of Wisconsin, F. Stables of Minnesota, D. R. Wallace of Texas, J. G. Thomas of Georgia, J. S. Billings, U. S. Army, J. S. Warren of Massachusetts, and A. T. Woodward of Vermont were nominated to constitute the next Judicial Council.

The whole report of the nominating committee was accepted, and the officers were declared elected. The same committee recommended that the next annual meeting be held at Richmond, and that Dr. F. D. Cunningham of that city be authorized to act as Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements. This part of the report was accepted also. The next Convention will meet on the first Tuesday in May, 1881.

The elections, which were of little interest to outsiders, being finished, the committee appointed to consider the question of adopting the metric system of weights and measures in prescription writing reported in favor of the adoption of that system. This was the signal for a parfect volley against the committee, but it was noticed that nearly all who opposed this new departure in the method of prescription writing were men who probably began practice thirty or forty years ago. Dr. Beverly Cole of San Francisco, well known as a progressive and agreesive member of the profession, said it was folly to altempt the prevention of the metric system coming into general use. That system years and cents was ahead of the English system of pounds, so that some time in the future it might perhaps be adopted without serious inconvenience. He believed that nine-tenths of the members of the medical profession did not even know what the metric system was proven by the adoption of the metric system was proven by the adoption of the metric system was for the members of the medical profession did not even know what the metric system was proven by the adoption of the metric system were saidy mistaken, was proven by the adoption of the members of the medical profession did not even know what the metric system was proven by the adoption of the members of the medical profession did not even k the adoption of the metric system were sadly mistaken, was proven by the adoption of the temmittee's report by an almost unanimous vote.

Dr. Beach of Washington offered a resolution that it was the sense of the association that medical officers in the army and navy should have the same social rank in their commands as is enjoyed by the regular military officers. The resolution was laughed down. President Sayre said this was the third time he had heard such a resolution offered in the American Medical Association, and he hoped it would be the last.

Jor. James F. Hibberd of Indiana made an address, in which he took the ground that seders, in which he took the ground that was not necessary. SHOOTING HIS SISTER'S LOVER.

How Young Mr. Beadle Showed his Dis

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 3 .- John Slater of Whitney's Point, in this county, is dying from a gunshot wound inflicted by William Beadle, a farmer. Beadle lives with his mother and two sisters near Whitney's Point. Stater was employed by him, and fell in love with one of the Beadle giris. His attentions were encouraged by Miss Beadle. Her brother disapproved of her choice, discharged Slater, and forbade him to come to the house. On Sunday night Slater was driving by the Beadle farm, Miss Beadle stood at the gate. He stopped his horse and talked with her from his wagon. Beadle vame in from a field and ordered him away. He refused to go. Beadle went in the house and got his gun. His mother and his sister tried to take it from him. He knocked his sister down with his fist, and struck his mother on the head with the gun, kno-king her senseless. He then shot Slater, inflicting a mortal wound. Mrs. Beadle lies in a critical condition, and Beadle is under arrest. was employed by him, and fell in love with one

Punishing a Lawyer.

Judge Lawrence yesterday granted an appli-stion made by Wm. C. Clifford on behalf of John Som-nermeyer, to punish Max Steinert, a lawyer, for misconduct, in having failed to pay over $600 collected by him as attorney for Sommermeyer. The latter, who wa ecciving stolen goods, left with his brother a promissor, receiving stolen goods, left with his brother a promissory note upon which payment was made to Steinert. When proceedings were instituted to panish him for contempt, Steinert claimed he had paid over the money to Sommermeyer's brother, and produced a receipt purporting to have been sized by that jerson. Exclude Howorth, to whom the matter was referred, reported, after a full charing, that Steinert had not noted the immey, and that the receipt was a torgery. Judge Lawrence confirmed the rep rt, and directed that Steinert be committed to Ludiow street jail until he pays the fine of $1,000 imposed, being the sum wrongfully withheld, and the expenses of the reference.

The Grip that Saved Raynor's Life.

Svivester Raynor of Manorville L. I., on Wednesday reached the railroad deput in that place, intending to mail some letters, just as the mail train was lead ing to mail some letters, just as the mail train was leaving the station. He ran for the mail car, and fell in a fit as he was within a rew feet of the door. In falling he clutched the stay brace, an iron rod about two inches in diameter, which runs from each end of the car to the centre, close to the side and under the car floor. His crip was so strong that it prevented his failing upon the track, as he was dragged along with his neek over the rail. The train was stopped as soon as pressible. It fook considerable force to release Raynor's hold on the iron brace. He was not conscious of the great danger which he had escaped.
